I want to put in writing what I have already told you verbally--that your people did an outstanding job on the Executive Decision Analysis Seminar conducted [redacted] in September. [redacted] performed splendidly, earning my admiration as I watched, and obviously making an enormous impression on our students. [redacted] tells me that the support arrangements from beginning to end couldn't have been better, and your Agency's kindness in making the facility available for us was a real plus to the course. Of course, Admiral Inman's appearance on Monday night added the final touch of excellence. It is hard for me to imagine how it could have been done any better.

Finally, I want to thank you for hosting me and making it possible for me to observe the course in progress. I greatly enjoyed having the chance to talk to you away from the hassle of the office, and I think we have made an excellent beginning for what will be a fruitful collaboration in the future. I look forward to further mutual efforts, especially in executive development, as a means of bringing our two agencies into closer cooperation.

Again, please accept the thanks of my staff and the NSA students and my own gratitude for all the hard work and excellent results. It was an excellent seminar, and there is no question that the students are richer for it.

I look forward to your visiting our School in the near future.

Sincerely,
